IT'S TOWN'S NEXT MOVE ON MASTER PLAN: THOMAS

Township residents this week had two items to digest: their Thanksgiving turkey and the so-called "master plan" for Township growth suggested last Wednesday by the County Planning Commission staff.

The master plan gave Washington Township's eight communities plenty to chew on, what with a dozen possible major policies inherent in it.

Some of these include: agricultural buffers between towns, industrial zones, small-farm areas, recreation areas and high-way routes.

The plan is even more provocative since the commission staff—principally executive secretary John Jay Thomas—left its adoption and further direction strictly up to the local towns.

Today Thomas said he hopes the next step will be "discussion of the Township Plan in general terms in the several communities."

Thomas listed possible starters in:

1. Newark, which is already zoned, but which is chafing under some of its restrictions.
 2. Niles, where Adobe Acres residents have asked to be zoned against certain "undesirable" encroachments, including gravel pits.
 3. Warm Springs, where industrial zoning has been approved.
- "We want to get the local reaction in general terms first," Thomas explained in an interview with The Register, "before refining the plan, which always means a controversy as individuals determine 'what this does to my land.'"

The county planning expert hinted he is waiting only for an invitation from the towns involved before carrying his maps and explanations to the scene.

Some of the items which "might" be discussed in this preliminary stage, he listed as:

1. Desirability of larger lot sizes.

UNKNOWN TB SAID 'WORST MENACE'

The most dangerous case of tuberculosis in Alameda County walks the streets undetected, Dr. John L. Gompertz, a director of the Alameda County Tuberculosis Association, declared this week.

"He's not only dangerous to himself, but to others as well, to his family, his friends, his co-workers and to countless others whom he doesn't even know," the doctor emphasized.

"Although his case hasn't as yet reached the stage where the symptoms are obvious to him, he still has tuberculosis and is spreading it to others."

However, Dr. Gompertz pointed out, there is a very definite program on in Alameda County to help locate these unknown cases of TB.

"The master objective of the Alameda County Tuberculosis and Health Association, is to find all cases of TB in this area and to find them early before the illness becomes acute and before it is spread to other persons."

An important phase of the Association's case finding activities, Dr. Gompertz disclosed, is its free chest x-ray program in which minifilm machines are utilized to enable the Association to x-ray large numbers of people at relatively low cost.

For the first ten months of 1952 the mobile units took a total of 56,644 x-rays while 7,608 others were taken at the Hut location in Oakland.

The Association's entire health program, including case finding, research and educational activities, are financed solely by its annual Christmas Seal Sale. Dr. Gompertz pointed out.

The 1952 sale of the holiday stickers is now open. It is headed locally by Mrs. Laura Whipple of Niles.

Here comes the fourth Thursday in November again, and everybody—almost—gets a holiday. The idea is to enjoy the day off. Incidentally, if you feel like it, it might not be a bad idea to remember why. Thanksgiving is not a commercial holiday, promoted by the National Cheese Association to sell cheese. It has a religious and patriotic background that no other of our national holidays possesses.

The Pilgrims had something to be thankful for when Governor Bradford issued his first Thanksgiving decree. They had fought through their first year on a hostile, rocky shore. They had staved off the fearsome Indians. Their crops had prospered. Considering the odds, it was a miracle. It seemed to them that some Being beyond the merely human sphere and must have had a hand in all this.

So it is today. We have just as much to be thankful for as the Pilgrims. Never have so many been prosperous. Never has our nation been so blessed, so united. Even a bitterly-fought National election wasn't able to dent our front. With a new and vigorous Administration, we can look forward to even greater things.

In the foreign field, we are fighting a terrible war in Korea. But this has shown the Russians our strength. They are not likely to attack as long as we remain powerful enough to fight such a war. Our scientists have developed weapons so terrible that any aggressor would think twice before defying them.

And we have our freedom. Freedom to talk, to worship, to think as we please. Freedom to do anything, in fact, that doesn't harm our fellow-man.

Yes, there is much to be thankful for in 1952. If we think about it, we realize it is so. Let us give thanks truly, thanks to Him whose bounty has made our life the fullest man has ever known.

NILES GRAVEL PIT DECISION TODAY

Alameda County's Board of Supervisors are slated to act today (Tuesday) on the petition of Rhodes & Jamieson to establish a gravel pit west of Niles.

The proposed pit has been opposed by residents of Adobe Acres on the grounds it will deface the area, cause an industrial nuisance, harm property values, and create a hazard through trucking operations.

The Planning Commission several weeks ago denied R&J's application to operate the pit. Then the commission reversed itself in a 4-2 vote and granted the petition.

The supervisors are reviewing the commission's action, and have the final power to confirm or reverse the commission's ruling.

Last week Supervisor Chester E. Stanley appeared at the meeting of the Alameda County Water District in Centerville to ask the directors' opinion on the pit. Some members opined it might serve percolation of water into underground channels, thus aiding irrigation, a board member reported after the meeting.

Centerville Firehouse

Centerville fire commissioners today announced they will shortly build a new $40,000 firehouse on the site of the present antiquated structure.

The commissioners have asked the Supervisors to okeh a contract with Sorensen & Ellsworth, Niles architects, to construct a two-story, concrete-block building.

The new firehouse will be built as soon as approval can be obtained, and contracts let, according to Judge A. G. Norris, commission secretary. Norris said the district has enough money on hand to finish the job.

Plans Go Ahead for Niles Christmas Fete

Niles will have a Christmas like Niles never had before if plans disclosed here this week by its Merchants' Committee are realized.

Following a luncheon report session in Nello's Cafe, representative merchants decided to:

1. Stage a giant choral and folk-dance celebration on Monday night, December 22, on First Street.

SUPES SNAFU REC' DISTRICT VOTE

Newark's recreation district election was delayed last week as a result of parliamentary chaos in the Board of Supervisors.

A decision is expected today, however, on whether to call an election to form the tax-supported district.

The confusion was caused when Chairman Harry Bartell tried to have the Southern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, representing six per cent of the assessed valuation, excluded from the proposed district.

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley moved to include all Southern Pacific property, including a 256-acre industrial site the road owns. He got a second from Supervisor Kent D. Pursel, who said "right-of-way exemption in this case would set a precedent for utilities escaping taxation in other type districts."

Supervisor George Janssen of Eden Township agreed with Bartell that inclusion of railroad tracks would be an "undue penalty" against a line that was encouraging factories to establish in Alameda County.

With Supervisor Clifford Wixson of Oakland giving no indication of his decision, Chairman Bartell proposed putting the matter over until Tuesday.

SP Agent R. D. Smith and district proponents, however, declared themselves ready for a board ruling.

Stanley withdrew his original motion after a conference with Pursel; Janssen moved for district formation with "the rights-of-way" excluded. It awaited a second; then Stanley said, "I move that the district be formed excluding only the tracks."

When it was explained to him "rights-of-way" and "tracks" were the same thing, Stanley seconded Janssen's motion.

Supervisor Wixson voted "no" and it became obvious to Pursel and Stanley their original motion of inclusion would have passed.

Board Counsel Douglas Dunning read a resolution he had prepared for board use, but which left blank the territory to be excluded.

Stanley moved for adoption of the Dunning-prepared resolution "with no exceptions."

Bartell said the board can "make our own parliamentary rules and regulations" and ruled Stanley's motion out of order, adding "besides it didn't have a second."

Stanley withdrew his motion. Dunning explained that the board would have to adopt an overall resolution, covering the name of the district, the boundaries, which are to be the school district lines, and notice of determination to hold an election.

Stanley got the matter put over to Tuesday at 10 a.m.

2. Co-ordinate this show with holiday window displays in downtown stores by schools, churches and civic groups.

3. Continue with the traditional free Kiddies' Matinee at the Niles Theater the day before Christmas.

E. C. Parks, chairman of the committee, suggested a $5 assessment per merchant could pay for the entire program. It is Parks' idea to "de-commercialize" Christmas this year and promote community spirit by staging the attraction.

Walter Chrysler of the folk-dance committee said groups have been invited not only from the Township but from neighboring communities. He suggested roping off a block on First Street at the Southern Pacific Depot for the show.

Caesar DiGiulio, chairman of the committee to present the carols, reported enthusiastic responses from Washington Union High School and from several churches.

Mrs. Clarence Crane attended the session and was recommended as co-ordinator for the caroling groups.

Walter Sletten of the decorations committee urged invitations be sent to schools, churches (Continued on Page 8)

WELL-DONE DUCK SAFEST

Questions have been asked if there is danger of botulism through eating wild duck shot during hunting season, says Mrs. Christine Groppe, Alameda County home advisor. The botulinus bacillus in the lakes is Type C and while the toxin resulting is not considered harmful to man, it is still advisable to cook the ducks thoroughly, until well done, she advises.

HUSKIES LOSE LOS GATOS BATTLE, 8-6; BEE'S DROP PENNANT CHANCE, 20-0

By BOB HIRD

Washington High's spirited Huskies gave the Los Gatos Wildcats their most uneasy moments of the season Friday night, but a fourth guard safety by the Wildcats netted the visitors an 8-6 victory.

The loss shoved the Huskies into a tie for last place with the James Lick Comets as the SCVAL grid season closed.

Pennant winner of the SCVAL has yet to be decided. Fremont, Los Gatos and Campbell are all in contention and next week's contest between Campbell and 'Gatos will decide it.

Other games in the SCVAL Friday night found the James Lick Comets upsetting the Santa Clara Panthers 19-12, and the Campbell Bucs dropping the Mountain View Eagles 19-6.

The Orange and Black, playing their hardest brand of ball of the dismal season, held the usually brilliant 'Cat offense to a standstill in the first half.

The Husky defense mostly intermission lead as they scored after an 82-yard march with 15 seconds remaining in the half. Fullback George Cole passed to Allen Olk from five yards out for the score. Ed Valle's try for the extra point was blocked by the charging 'Gatos line.

The usky defense, mostly through the work of Ron Westray, Rod Henricks, Bob Brizal and Clarence Souza, stopped the Cats three times inside their own 20 during the first half.

The Wildcats, who really needed this game, came roaring back in the second half and marched 74 yards to pay dirt midway in the third period. Oscar Kawauchi tallied the touchdown, going over from the two-yard stripe.

The important pass for extra point was knocked down in the end zone by Center Ed King. The fourth quarter was a real thriller. Tempers flared throughout. The disastrous safety against the Huskies occurred in the last two minutes of the game.

The Cats were on their way to a score but a fumble gave the ball to Washington on its own two-yard line. Two plays later, with the ball still on the two, Tailback John "Chico" Chacon fumbled in the end zone and fell on the ball for the Cats' two points.

The return of Olk and King greatly helped the Huskies Friday night, bolstering both their offense and defense.

The Orange and Black ended its season with a total of two wins and eight setbacks.

Seniors who played their last game for Coach Jud Taylor were: Chacon, Frank Galvan, Frank Murakami, Phil Pineda, George Cole, Dick Arington, Dick Guerra, Gene Mayer, Rod Hendricks, Bob Lunsford, Brazil, King, Jim Bolivia, Ed Valles, Rich Sylvestri, Ed

Mateo, Doug MacIntosh, James Andrade, Dave Marin, Tony Nieves and Ray Million.

The Huskies elected Brazil and Chacon their co-captains of the year.

The Washington High Pupils ended their football season in gloom Friday also. They were defeated by the pennant-winning Los Gatos B squad, 20-0.

The loss shoved the junior Huskies back to third place in the final standings. Their season mark found the Pupils winning six and losing two.

Senior B's who played their last game for Washington were Russ Hayes, Don Leach, George Mendoza, Gene Chitwood and Ed-die Fletcher.

Last game "A" scores by quarters:

Washington 0 6 0 0-6
Los Gatos 0 0 6 2-8

GUN SAFETY CAN CUT DEATH TOLL

Inauguration of a series of new gun safety laws in California last year came too late to affect the 1951 hunting accident toll of 17 deaths and 48 wounded, State Department of Fish and Game statistics show.

Department Director Seth Gordon announced last year's hunting casualty list as the seasonal peak of hunters was afield in pursuit of bears, upland game and waterfowl.

"It is hoped," Gordon said, "that the accident figures will make the few careless hunters think before they shoot."

The 1951 death toll among California hunters tops the 11 recorded in 1950, but falls far below the all-time record of 38 hunter deaths in 1948. The 1951 totals do not include mishaps from causes other than gunfire, Gordon stated.

Carrying of loaded guns in vehicles—illegal since September, 1951—cost the lives of at least five hunters and accounted for wounds among six others last year. Two died and 18 were wounded while in the line of fire, or when mistaken for game.

Four fatalities and 16 wounds were self-inflicted, while seven died and 18 were wounded by other hunters. Rifles accounted for 34 accidents, and shotguns were involved in 31 of the years' cases.

NEWSPAPER BEST MIRROR OF TOWN

Newspapers are the mirror of a community, but like a mirror they don't always reflect what individuals like best to see.

This view was expressed to Niles Rotarians last week by Daniel K. Stearns, public relations director of the San Jose Mercury and News, in a talk entitled "The Newspaper Story."

"Home-delivered papers aren't in the business of peddling scandal," Stearns told the luncheon meeting in the International Kitchen. "They are more interested in providing the information everyone needs—fires, the weather, notices of public meetings, and so on."

Tabbing the newspaper "the meeting-place of the community," the speaker listed (1) advertisements as "a who's who on what to buy," and (2) the editorial page as a place where the paper may express its own opinions and air those of its readers through the letters column.

Stearns said American newspapers have risen to a recent circulation of 54,000,000 every day because they offer satisfaction to a town's needs, "unmatched by any other medium."

Radio and television, he implied, are limited by space and time—a newspaper provides a permanent record, always on hand when anyone wants it.

Stearns is a former editor of the Minneapolis Journal, the Denver News, and the Salt Lake City Tribune. He was introduced by Stuart Nixon, program chairman.

Rotary President Clifford K. Dennis welcomed to membership George H. Williamson, West Coast manager and Niles plant superintendent for the American Chemical Paint Company.

IT'S UP TO US

Well, everybody and his brother turned out last Wednesday night to see what the Master Plan looked like, and nobody was more surprised than Supervisor Stanley, Commissioner Wright and John Thomas, the planning Commission's expert. We heard them say, both officially and unofficially, they never expected anything like the interest. We knew different, and have been trying to tell them that people down here are anxious about their Township's future.

Thomas told the people they were right to be worried, that the county has provided no policy for planning in this area. And he said this was because people here themselves hadn't asked for it. Of course, that is true, but we think the people would have asked sooner if they had been alerted by their representatives.

According to Stanley and Thomas, government has been extra touchy about pushing any planning because it didn't know if the Township wanted planning—which ultimately means zoning restrictions too. Some folks may wonder why this thing has to start from the top down, instead of from the bottom up. That's because the average guy, who knows everything there is to know about baseball, politics and how to run his bosses business, doesn't know anything about the complicated processes which go into an overall plan. He can say of course: "I don't want a street through my farm," or "I don't want a junk yard next to my house." But when it comes to fitting factories, homes, farms and roads into the most workable combination, he might as well be told to assemble an atom bomb. Therefore trained technical men in the planning field, which is like the law, or medicine, or engineering—a reasonably exact science—have to make the wheels spin. Sure enough, they can't tell him he HAS to do anything. They CAN tell him the easiest, best way to do it for the good of the greatest number of people.

We have been steering this Township since the war like a ship with the rudder missing. The rudder is this Master Plan. After it is hashed over, pulled apart, and pieced together to make most folks happy, the Supervisors will get it and make it the official county policy for our Township. Then when somebody wants zoning against hog ranches, when a subdivider wants to put in streets, when the PG&E wants to push out a gas line to a new tract, there will be something to refer to for a guide.

Anyway, we have something to work on. From here out, it's up to us. If we don't get what we want, before population puts us in a straightjacket, it will be our own fault. Thomas wants to meet soon and often with representative bodies in the eight local towns. The line forms on the right.

THE CENTENNIAL

Next May our county, now the second most populous in California, will be 100 years old. In May, 1853, the first county seat was established in Alvarado, and Alameda County was carved out of Santa Clara and Contra Costa. For this reason, it seems appropriate to many people—including at least one Supervisor—that the centennial celebration be held in Washington Township.

The issue has been thrown in the lap of the Township Chamber of Commerce, as the agency most representative of this wide area. But the chamber is still a comparatively small body. It cannot know what the wishes of the whole Township are in such a matter. Townshippers in all walks of life should be heard from.

This newspaper will welcome letters on the Centennial from its readers. Our motto is: If you want something, say so!

NEW SAN FRANCISCO ATTRACTION

Dedication of a $500,000 planetarium in San Francisco recently should remind us all that there are some advantages of living near a big city.

It is only in large concentrations of population that such relative luxuries of civilization are found. Los Angeles is the only other city in California with a planetarium. California, indeed, is the only State in the nation with two places where the public can study the stars while scientists move their counter-parts through centuries by mechanical means.

People who live in the rural areas near big cities, however, get just about as much use from such facilities as people who live in town. They come to the city with a purpose in mind. City people are eternally postponing visits to nearby attractions; indeed, some never get around to making them.

The new planetarium, a part of the California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park, will prove a powerful magnet to people all over Northern and Central California who are interested in the natural sciences.

MYSTERY MAN WAS USC GRID STAR

Was our Mystery Man last week so mysterious? Did you guess who he was right away when we gave you the clue about hypnosis, or did you have to scramble through the paper to find out he was Ted Tully, operator of the Niles Theater? This week may be a little tougher. Try and see. If you can't guess the answer, it's somewhere in our news columns.

He moved to Los Angeles at the age of eight from Centralia, Illinois.

After high school, he went to engineering school at USC, graduating in 1928.

USC was a football power in those days too (remember?) and our mystery man starred in both gridiron sports and in track. Weighing only 145 pounds at that time, he was a watch-charm guard, first-string too, on a club which beat Stanford, California and turned down a Rose Bowl bid to play Notre Dame instead of a post-season tilt. USC won by a touchdown.

In track, he was No. 2 Man to famed sprinter Frank Wykoff.

During the summer our hero worked for a milk company which supplied movie stars' homes in Beverly Hills. He delivered cow juice to Ruth Chatterton, Alice White, William Haines and a score of film luminaries of that day. Milkmen got a glimpse of wild parties in the Roaring Twenties.

"I remember one place I tried to sneak out after making my delivery," he says. "They spotted me and I didn't get away 'till 5 a.m.!"

Wampus beauties are not for him, though. He says they are too fickle. Instead he married a girl he'd known since childhood, a good cook who speedily added plenty of poundage to that 145-pound frame. He might find it hard to catch Wykoff now.

After a stretch with the City of Los Angeles, eating beans on the aqueduct job from Owens Valley, our Mystery Man worked as an electrical engineer in the oil fields near Taft, then went into business for himself in Vallejo. Four years ago he came to Washington Township.

His job keeps him up late. He thinks his wife's talents are still his best business asset.

Guess who!

Niles P.T.A. News

The Niles P.T.A. held a busy session last Tuesday afternoon at the Niles School, with Mrs. Frank Souza presiding.

The two classes which brought in the most membership representation during the membership drive were Mrs. Isabel Oxborrow's kindergarten, and Mr. Martin Brasill's sixth grade. Both received class parties last week.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, December 9. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Naomi Troxell, head of the psychology department of Alameda County Schools.

Niles Christmas Fete

and civic organizations to decorate windows which would be made available by local stores. He suggested Christmas themes could be judged for prizes.

Parks reminded the meeting that the Merchants' Committee originally was sponsored by the Niles Chamber of Commerce, and ought to link itself closely to the Chamber, which as an incorporated body can assume responsibility for damages in case of mishaps.

The Niles Chamber last week officially named Parks and his officers to handle the Christmas fiesta.

On motion of Ed Enos, this suggestion was approved. Enos also moved to adopt Ted Tully's suggestion to consolidate choral and folk-dancing programs on a single night, instead of on two as originally proposed. The Tully-Enos plan was then adopted.

Parks pointed out the Niles Chamber of Commerce is going ahead with plans to string Christmas lights and decorations, and to assess its members $5 each for this work. Thus, Parks said, it would simplify operations of the festival if the Chamber collected $10 and turned the additional money over to the Merchants' Committee. Again, the plan was o.ked.

Parks told his committeemen to be prepared to report again on final arrangements next week—probably on December 3.

Move on Master Plan

told nearly 100 interested Townshippers subdividers here probably ought to make lots larger than in Hayward and San Lorenzo, where five families are permitted on one acre.

2. Agricultural land... Thomas last week suggested "reservoirs" of farm land, held out of development until growth of the region points the way to their most desirable use. This would particularly apply to areas which have drainage problems.

on shopping centers and schools, shopping centers and schools.

He stressed there is a planning opportunity in Washington Township "which doesn't require making the best of a bad situation, like in Eden Township."

Study of the maps brought here by Thomas was approved Wednesday by the Township Chamber of Commerce, with the added injunction to the commission staff to complete the master plan "as soon as possible."

A move by one audience member to call an immediate vote on whether the Township wants zoning was parried by Chamber President Allan Walton. So was Supervisor Chester E. Stanley's humorous offer to have the tentative plan approved immediately by the supervisors.

Mrs. Pauline Alameda summed up her reaction to zoning, saying: "It's worked in Irvington. But the thing is, it's flexible, and communities that don't want it can rezone themselves to suit themselves."
